

FAQ

SHOWER ENCLOSURES

Are they only suitable for use with neaco shower products?

No - Aluseal doors are an ideal complement to neaco shower trays and grilles, but they have also been designed to suit any type of showering facility, including ones not supplied by us. Their compact design suits even the smallest and most awkward bathroom layouts and can also accommodate irregular installations with an earth bonding facility supplied. Aluseal doors include a compensator plate which can be precision-cut to accommodate altro or similar wet-floor facilities. Please contact our customer service team for installation advice.

What if the bathroom has an uneven floor or wall?

No problem - Aluseal doors are designed to accommodate this. They provide generous compensation of plus or minus 15mm to adapt to variations (fixing kit and instructions are supplied).

How do I decide which model to choose?

If you are ordering Aluseal doors to go with a neaco shower grille, we suggest that you select the shower grille or tray first (please see our section on shower systems for details) and then select the most suitable doors. We offer plenty of sizes and options, including full-height panels to at least one side of an enclosure and double bi-fold doors to one side of an enclosure. Many Aluseal models have been designed to fit standard neaco shower grilles and trays - please see below Compatibility Guide for full list of grilles, trays and their compatible Aluseal models. In cases where more than one Aluseal option is available we recommend that you consult the door plans to choose your most suitable model for the specific layout of your bathroom.

*when an order code ends in L or R this denotes that the Aluseal enclosure is designed for a left or right hand corner. If you are selecting Aluseal only for a non-neaco shower facility, the main considerations are the size of the showering area and the position of the shower - for example, whether it is replacing a bath or whether it is located in the corner or against one wall. With non-neaco shower facilities and bespoke installations we recommend that you call our customer service team to discuss the best Aluseal solution for your individual requirements.
